Additionally, Haig said, the United States might store medical supplies and other equipment in Israel for use by American forces in an emergency. But Haig and Begin, who held a separate news conference, stressed that American troops would not be used for the defense of Israel.

Describing the United States and Israel as "strategic partners with common interests," Haig said they faced a threat from the Soviet Union, its allies in the region and "terrorists and the like." He said the agreement represented a compromise with Israel, which has long sought closer military links with the United States. "Our Israeli friends had a rather more fulsome assessment...of what they would seek in the period ahead" Haig

Haig said be hoped an agreement on autonomy could be reached by April. That is when Israel is to complete its withdrawal from Sinai and dismantle Jewish settlements there under the terms of its 1979 peace treaty with Egypt.

Both leaders said they had established warm and friendly ties that would help avoid a repetition of the disputes and tension of the past few months. They also said they had advanced the prospects for a new Middle East agreement when talks begin later this month on self-rule for Palestinians in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat agreed last month to resume the autonomy negotiations, which had been stalled for more than 14 months.

Begin said the new strategic ties being forged with the United States were directed only against external threats from the Soviet Union or its proxies, and that Israel would defend itself against any attacks from Arabs.

Begin added the "agreement in principle" with Reagan had not dampened his opposition to the pending U.S. arms deal for Saudi Arabia. "The deal is no less dangerous to Israel's security," Begin said after his thrid and final meeting with Reagan. He and the presdient hailed the new understanding as a sturdy barrier to Soviet penetration in the Middle East.

Seeing Begin off, Reagan said they had made progress in "charting of course" for peace in the region. "We will work together to maintain the peace that was concluded between Israel and Egypt and to build on that peace and broaden it," the president said.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency, Tass said Friday that the prospect of new military cooperation between the United States and Israel poses "a direct threat to peace and security in the Middle East, above all to the Arab countries of the region."

Reporting on talks between Reagan and Begin, Tass charged that the main result of Begin's visit was agreement on "increasing the American military presence in the Gulf area and consequently increasing a growth in the American military menace to the Arab countries."

Tass did not say how the U.S.-Israeli talks, which might lead to joint naval exercises, intelligence exchanges and the stockpiling of American equipment in Israel, might specifically threaten the region.

Gas leak in U.K.; 1.000 evacuated

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AFP) — About 1,000 people were evacuated from their homes and work places in the north London suburb of Anfield for about 90 minutes Friday when chemical fumes spewed into the area from a local factory, firemen here said.

It was at first feared that the fumes were deadly cyanide gas, but the director of the factory said the smoke was due to graphite combustion. However, fire services spokesman Ian Mill said that authorities "were taking no chances" and decided to evacuate all people in the area.

Twenty young women working in the factory lost consciousness during the accident, but all but one were released after being revived and examined in a nearby hospital.

Despite EEC budget

British-French ties hit peak

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AFP) — Relations between France and Britain had reached new heights in spite of differences on the European Community's budget, observers said Friday at the conclusion of the sixth Franco-British summit.

French President Francois Mitterrand and British Premier Margaret Thatcher told a press conference that the second day of the summit had been devoted to European issues and commercial relations with Japan. They said they also took a look at world problems and discussed ways of developing bilateral relations.

The two countries decided to continue

New synthesis helps study of heart disease

LA JOLLA, California, Sept. 11 (AP)

— Researchers at Salk Institute announced they have synthesized a brain hormone that could be a "powerful new tool" in understanding the causes of heart disease, high blood pressure and stroke.

The hormone seems to trigger emotions and be deeply involved in the brain's response to stress, according to Dr. Wylie Vale, whose research team has worked on the problem for 10 years.

The researchers isolated a tiny amount of the substance — 90 millionths of a gram — from the brains of millions of sheep. They analyzed it and learned to synthesize it in the laboratory, Vale said.

"We have been able to synthesize thousands of times that already, because we know the blueprint," he said. "Now we have enough to make studies on animals, and eventually perhaps human beings, if it is not toxic to human beings."

The substance — called Corticotropin Releasing Factor, or CRF — "provides neurobiologists with a powerful new tool in determining precisely how the brain controls the stress response, a complex set of physiological and behavioral events including increases in hormone levels, blood pressure and blood sugar," the institute said tute said.

The research by Vale, German-born Joachim Spiess and a Swiss couple, Jean and Catherine Rivier, will be published in Friday's edition of Science magazine.

The institute's announcement said the finding "may eventually lead to new ways of controlling stress-related diseases such as heart disease, stroke peptic ulcers and sexual disfunction.

"Evidence for the existence of this was uncovered 30 years ago," Vale said. "Roger Guillemin of Salk Institute and Andrew Schally of Tulane University won a Nobel prize in 1955 for their work.

negotiations on the future of the controversial Franco-British supersonic Concorde plane, and agreed on new studies for the long-mooted tunnel under the English Channel. Mrs. Thatcher called the summit "excellent, extremely constructive and very helpful," while President Mitterrand, for his part,

said it had been "fertile, useful and precise."

The British premier said talks on the channel would be held within a month, and that the project should be privately financed. Mitterrand quipped that the proposed underwater link should "stop being a sea monster" and that more reflection was necessary, but added: "We're going ahead with it."

On the Concorde — the subject of widespread press speculation in Paris — Mitterrand said a mutual decision would be taken, to which Mrs. Thatcher added that a meeting would be held in London Oct. 29. Mrs.
Thatcher said that the two countries' divergent views on the European budget and agricultural policies meant only that closer talks were needed.

Mitterrand echoed the need to overcome the differences, particularly on fishing policies where, he stressed, France had "not closed the door". He insisted on the need to reflate the European economy, and added that "certain lines of action" toward bilateral cooperation had become apparent.

Mrs. Thatcher underlined the two countries' agreement on East-West relations, and the French leader stressed the need for a "strategic tactical balance" — already being fostered by France and Britain, he said—and for East-West dialogue. The two leaders agreed that economic aid to the world's poorest countries should be pushed to 0.15 percent of each country's gross national product.

Fahd, Haig review M.E. tangle today

MADRID, Sept. 11 (Agencies) — U.S. Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Crown Prince Fahd will meet outside Malaga in southern Spain Saturday "to excharge views on matters of mutual concern", the U.S. Embassy said Friday.

Confirming reports of the meeting between the American secretary and Fahd, an embassy statement said the two "agreed that their simultaneous presence in Spain provided an opportunity" for them to talk.

Haig will make a 22-hour stopover in Malaga at the start of a trip to Yugoslavia and West Germany. The Crown Prince is on vacation in southern Spain.

A statement by the Saudi Press Agency from Madrid Friday said that the Crown Prince will discuss with Haig "developments is in the Middle East, Arab and international issues of mutual interest led by the Arab-Israeli conflict and the Palestinian question".

The statement added that Prince Fahd will also discuss with Haig bilateral relations between Saudi Arabia and the United States. Earlier Thursday the U.S. Defense Department notified Congress Thursday that it intends to sell Saudi Arabia nearly $2.7 billion worth of military services and equip-

This does not include the five airborne warning and control system (AWACS) planes and equipment for Saudi Arabia's F-15 fighters the administration wants to provide the Kingdom.

The announcement came at a time when Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin is in this country arguing against sales of planes to

U.K. drops $5 billion gas pipeline plan

LONDON, Sept. 11 (R) — The government announced Friday it was dropping a $5 billion scheme to build an underwater pipeline to recover gas at present burnt off by oil rigs in the North Sea.

Junior Energy Minister Hamish Gray told a press conference that the government had hoped the private sector would provide most of the finance but it had demanded too many concessions. The decision means the collapse of the scheme to bring ashore gas from at least 20 oil and gas fields through a 670 kms integrated pipeline network.

It was estimated that natural gas worth some $45 billion could be recovered.

Solidarity shocks Soviet bloc

GDANSK, Sept. 11 (R) — Poland's Solidarity free trade union has sent shock waves through the Soviet bloc during the first part of its first national congress.

The union, raising cries of alarm in Warsaw, Moscow, Prague and East Berlin, wound up the first stage of its unprecedented gathering Thursday night with calls for free elections and a radical blueprint for a new Poland.

"We have the chance to create the Poland of which our ancestors could only dream," Solidarity leader Lech Walesa said.

In addition to free elections to regionalcouncils and the Sejm (national parliament), Solidarity sought control of food production, public control of the mass media, worker autonomy in factories and 'justice and equality for all

The union stopped short of demanding a reassessment of the principle of Communist supremacy in Poland, though this was implicitly challenged in the calls for free elections. These climaxed a congress which heard what was described as the freest national debate in Poland since the Communists came to power after World War II.

Walesa was in an optimistic mood after the congress, in which his own position has visibly strengthened. He said it was a successful event for Poland because all levels of society were represented, referring to the 9.5 million Solidarity adherents who outnumber Communists by four to one.

He hoped the government would react to the congress without waiting for Solidarity to prompt it and added that he hoped the second half of the congress, starting Sept. 26, would be covered fully on the national radio and television.

Solidarity barred state broadcasters from the congress in protest against Communist editorial control over output.

Walesa said he hoped Solidarity would one day be able to add its own channel to the state television network. But in Warsaw, Moscow and other Soviet bloc capitals Solidarity was openly accused by the Communists of seeking political power. The powerful Warsaw branch of the Polish party accused Solidarity of betraying its statutes by aiming at a change in the political structure of Poland.

Meanwhile, a Solidarity leader, in remarks published in Warsaw Friday, suggested that the labor federation now has people capable of running the government.

The suggestion of Marian Jurczyz, leader of Solidarity in the Baltic port of Szczecin on the East German border was published in Warsaw after the congress ended its deliberations.

At the same time, Poland's major state-run newspaper reacted with a mixture of anger and shock to a Solidarity resolution sending greetings to free unionists in other Soviet bloc countries. "We've said and we say that the problems which occur here are our own problems," said the moderate daily Zycie Warszawy. "We can and should solve them by ourselves.

The Warsaw chapter of the Communist Party said in a statement carried by the Polish news agency PAP that Solidarity "was developing, in defiance of agreements and the statutes, as a socio-political movement aiming at a counter-revolutionary change of the political system in Poland.

Libyan 'shift' triggers dollar's fall

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP) — The U.S. dollar fell against most foreign currencies in late trading Friday as profit-taking stemmed the recent sharp rise in gold and silver prices.

The dollar opened low in Europe but firmed slightly after the U.S. Federal fund rates edged up at Chicago's international money market. But in late trading the U.S. currency was down from late Thursday and last Friday against most other currencies. A trader for a major West German bank said Libya was unloading "significant amounts" of dollars on the market, transferring oil revenues in favor of the Deutsche mark and the Swiss francs.

The British pound, however, slipped to $1.7830, from 1.7905 late Thursday — a loss of 5 cents since last Friday, when sterling traded for 1.8435.

London's five bullion houses fixed a morning recommended gold price of $448.00 a troy ounce, $11.25 up on Wednesday's close and the metal's highest price since June 24. In Zurich, gold opened at $446.50 but quickly advanced to $448.50, its best performance in the Swiss center since June 25. Gold closed in Zurich Wednesday at $435.50. Silver traded in London at $10.93 an ounce, up from Wednesday $10.29.

Saudi Arabia. However, the services and material included in the latest proposed sale would only add to existing military agreements with the government in Riyadh.

Included in the new proposal for the Kingdom would be construction and training services and equipment for air bases at Jedddah and Jubail and at the country's military headquarters in Riyadh. Also included are support services for missile-firing ships sold to Saudi Arabia earlier.

The Defense Department announcement said the guided missiles proposed for sale to Egypt would replace weapons becoming obsolete because spare parts are not available. The other proposed sales include: Hand grenadeds and ammunition worth $105 million to Jordan, missiles and support equipment and services costing $28 million to the United Arab Emirates, two C-130H cargo aircraft along with support and training services to Oman at a cost of $45 million. Also, $131 million in equipment to modernize tanks to Turkey, 133 105MM Howitzers to Indonesia worth $16 million and 18 light helicopters to Spain at a cost of $510 million.

The Pentagon also announced it intends to sell $855 million in various weapons and defense equipment to several other Middle East states and to Indonesia and Spain. Included are $20 million in surface attack guided missiles and support services to Egypt.

Egypt.

The U.S. Congress has the power to disapprove any of the sales just as it does the proposed sale of the five spy planes to the Saudi Arabians. It was notified of the intended sale of the aircraft earlier this week and has 50 days to act on it.

In Los Angeles, a Saudi Arabian military official said Friday his country may turn to the Soviet Union for aid because of the 'insults and criticism' Saudi Arabians receive from Americans in purchasing U.S. arms.

Prince Khaled Bin Sultan Bin Abdul Aziz, director of projects and planning for the Saudi Arabians army air defense command, said: 'If we cannot count on the U.S. to sell us the defensive weapons we need without continual insult, then quite frankly we may turn elsewhere for our military hardware." He said that though Soviet ideology was foreign to Saudi Arabia they were 'willing to deal with the devil himself if it is in our national interest.'

Forty-three senators reacting to Reagan's move said they will co-sponsor a measure to veto the proposed sale of AWACS radar planes.

"Forty-three and building," Etta Fielek said Thursday. She is a press aide to Sen. Robert Packwood a Republican who is leading the drive. The total is eight votes short of the 51 needed to veto the sale in the Senate. The House of Representatives also must act if the sale is to be blocked.

Celebrates fifth anniversary

Arab shipping company comes of age

Shipping Company, formed by the Kingdom, Kuwait, Iraq. Oatar, Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates, will mark its fifth anniversary by holding functions in Riyadh, Jeddah and Dammam next week.

Abdullah Al-Madi, the company's director in the Kingdom, said that the functions scheduled for Monday through Wednesday will be exploited to meet with customers of the company with the aim of strengthening relations and maintaining close ties with importers in the Arab Gulf and the Red Sea.

The company was established under an agreement among the governments of the six Gulf Arab states to help promote economic ties. It owns one of the largest fleets in the world for running regular cargo shipping routes between various countries. The company's fleet is among the best in the world in regard to the ships age and equipment. Madi

To further reinforce its fleet and keep up with up-to-date developments in the shipping business, the company has recently signed a $400-million contract with the Hyundai group of South Korea for building nine large container ships. The ships will carry 1,800 containers each and are expected to be delivered during the first 10 months of 1983. The contract also provides for 14,000 containers which will be delivered at the same period as the ships. Madi added.

He said the company owns 100 ships of which 60 are modern ones. Each has a capacity of 23,800 tons. It also owns 13 smaller #### ships of 13,500 tons capacity for general cargo, and seven container ships. This variation in the company's fleet gives its activities more flexibility and helps it meet the various demands of shipping. Madi said. Avoiding harmful competition, the company has joined several international shipping unions which will preserve the interests customers, the director said

The company has recently played an effective role in aborting the war premium insurance increase on ships bound for the Gulf. It took action by convincing the unions that the addition was unnecessary. That had saved importers in the region huge funds, Madi

Speaking about the company's future plans, he said that it is considering operating routes between the Gulf and Australia, New Zealand and Latin America, KHARTOUM, Sept. 11 (AFP) - Chadian Foreign Minister Acyl Ahmat was wounded in an abortive counter-offensive by Lihyan and Chadian forces to re-take the town of Guereda Monday, the Sudanese news agency Suna reported Thursday.

Guereda, in eastern Chad, was reported to have fallen to forces loyal to rebel former Defence Hissene Habre Sarurday. #### Egypt's atomic pact endorsed WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) - Three U.S. House of Representatives foreign affairs subcommittees Thursday endorsed a U.S.-Egyptian atomic energy agreement that Reagan administration officials said includes special safeguard provisions to prevent diversion of nuclear fuel to weapons use.

By voice vote, the subcommittees sent to the full foreign affairs committee a resolution to formally approve the accord which was signed June 29 by Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig and Egyptian officials. Under the agreement. Egypt will be able to receive from the United States now-enriched uranium as well as nonsensitive nuclear technology and equipment, intended for research and power-generating reactors. Administration officials testifying at a joint subcommittee hearing said Egype's ratification of the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty last February had cleared the way for signing of the bilateral cooperation agreement. NPT adherence by a state of Egypt's significance is a major advance in the development of the international nonproliferation regime, of which the NPT is the linchpin," said Harry R. Marshall, principal deputy assistant secretary in the State Department's Bureau of Oceans and International Environmental and Scientific Affairs.

Marshall stressed that new accord bars reprocessing of U.S.-supplied nuclear duel within degypt and provides for removal of spent fuel from Egypt"in the event of extraordinary circumstances of concern from a nonproliferation standpoint.

SOLIDARITY'S TASK

Visitors to Poland in the last two decades know that opposition to Communist rule has always been shown by ordinary people. The taxi driver in Warsaw; Krakow, Poland's old. capital in the south; Gdansk in the north; or any other city and e, decorates the interior of his car with Roman Catholic literature that can never indicate allegiance to communism.

Visitors also find that the streets of Poland's major cities are the most crowded in Europe, with people lingering around display window shops — particularly duty-free shops where the citizen has to pay hard currency for an imported tin of sardine, American cigarettes or French perfumes.

Unlike others in the Communist bloc, the Poles do not seem to have been lured by "Communist paradize", principally because of their deep-rooted religious belief as is shown in the great number of well-maintained religious institutions which no other East European nation has cared for as the Poles.

Solidarity, the nation's free trade union movement, has sprung to life to express the Polish yearning for freedom and democracy, free from the strings of Karl Marx doctrine.

The task of defying Communist power by a free trade union in Poland, whose other bordering Communist regimes have accused Solidarity of demanding supremacy, makes it enormously difficult. The enormousness of the task becomes clearer when the movement's leader, Lech Walesa, demands, among other things, control of food production and the mass media: worker autonomy and justice for all.

The brass-crested marshalls in the Kremlin are of course alarmed, and will vehemently oppose and eventually attempt to liquidate a free Polish movement for fear of rekindling other freedom sparks in the suppressed satellites of Eastern Solidarity's responsibility becomes more difficult as the free world continous to watch evident preparations to wipe out free voices in Poland. Current Soviet maneuvers next door to Poland are but reminiscent of the invasion of Czechoslovakia on the night of Aug. 20, 1968 where Russian tanks crushed leaders of the national assembly calling for the country's democratization of political life.

The growing French support for the Palestinian and Arab causes and the U.S. biased policy in favor of Israel disregarding Zionist aggressions on Arab lands figured in editorial comments in Friday's newspapers.

The paper regretted Israel's continued maintenance of status quo in the Middle East and its refusal to settle the Arab-Israel conflict by denying Palestinian rights of self-determination and homeland in defiance of international norms and United Nations Charter.

Wait for new democracy

By David Storey

A year after the generals seized power and imposed martial law to quell political strife between the left and right. Turks are waiting to learn the shape and scope of a new democratic system they have been promised by their military rulers. Gen. Kenan Evran, the chief of staff and now head of state, and four commanders of the military forces who mounted the coup Sept. 12 last year, pledged to restore internal peace to the country which was edging toward a bloody civil war. The pledge has largely been fulfilled and political killings have almost been eliminated,

The generals also promised to lay the foundations of a democratic administration with built-in safeguards to prevent a recurrence of political extremism that paralyzed parliamentary rule and raised the spectre of full-scale civil war. A blueprint for a return to democratic rule is expected to be unveiled in the next few months with a basic commitment by the generals to some form of secular multi-party state.

Influencing the generals' preparations for a return to democracy is their attitude toward Turkey's politicians whom, they say, fiddled while Turkey burned. Two of the four top political leaders prior to the coup are now on trial - one of them, ultra-rightwinger Alpaslan Turkes, for his life. The remainder, along with all major party figures, have been barred from taking part in a general election, expected in 1983.

Former politicians have also been banned from membership of the consultative assembly. appointed by the ruling National Security Council (NSC), which meets in Ankara Oct. 23 to prepare a new constitution. During Turkey's last three years of parliamentary rule, more than 5,000 people were killed as extreme right-wing and leftwing factions, unchecked by the central government, fought open street battles and assassinated

Since the generals seized power in last year's bloodless overnight coup - the third military takeover in 20 years - the violence has virtually ceased. Thousands of militants are behind bars and more than 700,000 weapons have been

The military action, involving more than 70,000 detentions and resulting in 10 executions, provoked opposition. Critics in Turkey and Western Europe charged human rights had been violated and detainees were tortured. But many Turks felt suspension of democracy was not too high a price for security in the streets.

Senior military sources argue that the disintegration of Turkey in the 1970s was the result of a liberal constitution drawn up in 1961 being exploited by political leaders whose priority was their own political power rather than the good of the state. Some politicians, however, say the constitution itself was inadequate to cope with the specific problems of Turkey's democratic ambitions after centuries of Ottoman rule.

Whatever caused the slide into anarchy, the generals are determined to prevent it happening again. They have told European allies that no amount of pressure will force them to hasten the restoration of democracy unless there is assurance it can survive longer than previous attempts.

In their first year in office, the generals passed new tax laws and tackled long-standing social injustices. The reform had eluded feuding politicians for more than a decade. The tax law was the most important legislation enacted by the NSC and indicated the line the military wants pursued. Essential to the legislation was a stricter system of control and accountability.

Military sources say the generals also believe laws crucials to future stability involving trade unions and education must be enacted. From government sources, it appears new labor laws will be aimed at outlawing strikes. Legislation will be drawn up localizing trade union activity to prevent a national movement which could threaten other established state administrations.

Before last year's coup, widespread, often politically-motivated strikes cut deep into industrial production. Strikes at hotels and the national airlines disrupted tourism.

Since the military takeover, union activity has been in virtual suspense. Only the conservative Turk-Is, the biggest trade union confederation. has been permitted to operate. The extreme leftwing and right-wing labor confederations have been closed down.

Gen. Evran appeared to see almost as much danger to the country from the trade union activities as he did from the politicians. Branding left-wing unions as being hotbeds of communism and in league with militant armed movements, the general has denounced union leaders as being labor lords", living off the fat of their organiza-

"Nothing could be done against them before because under the law they could not be supervised," he declared, "Under the new laws, they will come under control and we will check every kurus (penny) they spend." The leaders of Disk, a left-wing confederation representing some 700,000 workers, have been brought to trial accused of trying to overthrow the state and bring about the domination of one class by another.

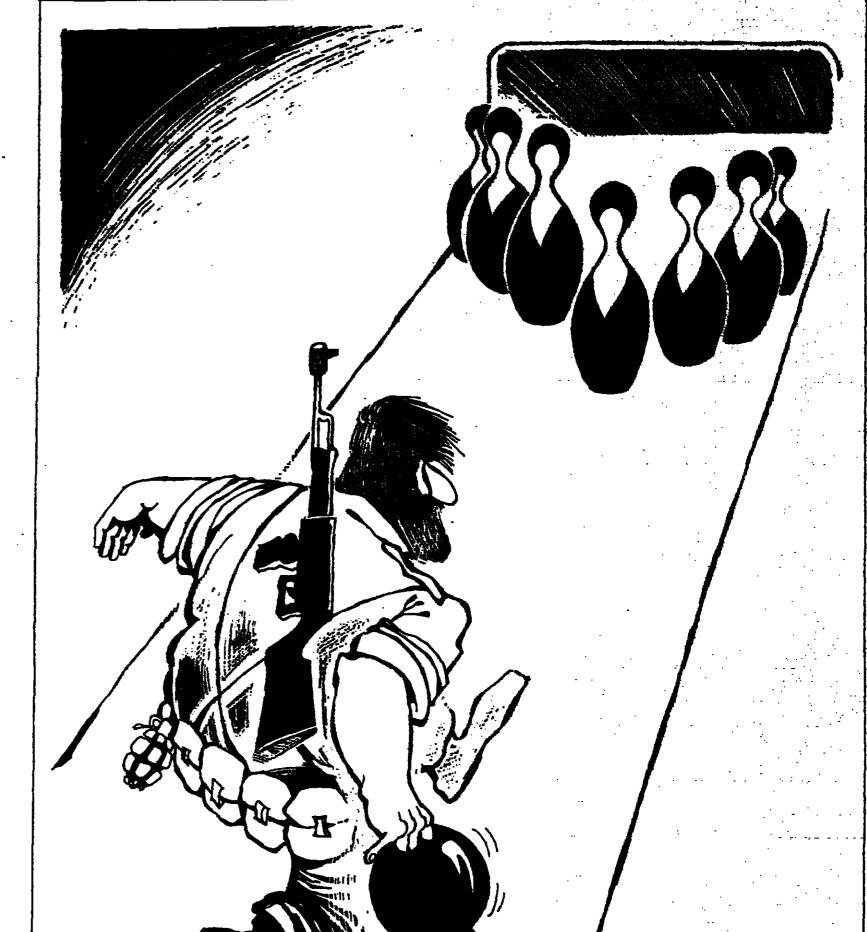

Education laws now in preparation will bring the appointment of higher education administrators directly under government control. The universities, like the trade unions, were regarded by the military as breeding grounds for political

Norwegians show swing to the right

By Helen Womack

OSLO --Norway's first woman prime minister and Labor Party leader, Gro Harlem Brundtland. could be ousted in next week's general election judging by opinion polls which have reported a swing to the right among voters.

Conservative Party leader Kaare Willoch is emerging as the most probable new prime minister in a campaign dominated by personalities and arguments over the economy. Recent polls suggest Labor, which has ruled Norway with minority governments since 1973, could lose 15 of its 76 seats in the 155-member Storting (parliament) in next Monday's polling. If that should happen, it could open the way for a coalition of the Conservative Center (Agrarian) and Christian People's Parties to lead the country for the next four years. But, a large number of so-far uncommitted voters could still upset predictions.

The polls reflect a political swing to the right on Norway and throughout Scandinavia since the mid-1970s, according to political science profes-sor Henry Valen of Oslo University. The conservatives, who need about 45 percent of the vote for a clear majority, stand to increase their parliamentary strength by some 17 seats to 58, if the present

The Labor Party has held power in Norway for most of the period since World War II, with only one significant interlude of non-Socialist coalition government from 1965 to 1971.

The election campaign has revolved around personalities rather than issues, resulting in an almost American-Style campaign battle between the two leading figures, Mrs. Brundtland and Willoch. The 53-year-old conservative leader, an economist, has been showing his flair for public speaking in set-piece radio debates with Mrs. Brundtland, 42, a doctor of medicine and public health expert. Mrs. Brundtland, in office since former Labor Prime Minister Odvar Nordli resigned because of ill health last February, is promoting the combined image of liberated career woman, housewife and mother of four children. With Norwegian inflation now at 14 percent, the conservatives have concentrated on attacking the government's economic record.

State subsidies from the profits of North Sea Oil and gas to ailing traditional industries such as fishing have kept unemployment down to only 1.9 percent at the expense of rapidly spiralling prices. Willoch argues.

Last month, Mrs. Brundtland announced a price freeze until the end of 1981. This was dismissed by the opposition as a pre-election stunt and evidence the government had lost control of the conomy. The conservatives are offering voters a four-point economic package to cut taxes, limit bureaucracy, halt socialist plans for worker selfmanagement and open the largely state-run North Sea oil and gas industry private enterprise.

Labor accuses Willoch of trying to dismantle the welfare state. The Center and Christian People's Parties broadly support the conservative

The rurally-based Center Party favors a gradual exploitation of North Sea Oil to protect fishermen's interests and the environment and guard the country from over-dependence on one industry. Disagreement between conservatives and the Christian People's Party over abortion threatens to upset any center-right coalition.

The Christian People's Party, with its roots in Norway's influential temperance movement, has made a tightening of the present liberal abortion laws a condition of its participation in a coalition. An opinion poll earlier this year showed less than a third of voters wanted to change the termination of pregnancy act. Willoch who has promised conservative deputies a free vote on the issue, may have to form a minority government without the Christian People's Party if Labor does badly at the Defense, which has been topic of lively debate in Scandinavia through the summer, has become minor issue in the election campaign. All groups except the Socialist Left Party and the left-wing of the Labor Party, agree a Nordic nuclear weapons-free zone should include Soviet territory and be established as part of wider European disarmament negotiations.

The left would like Norway and Denmark, both members of NATO, and neutral Sweden and Figland to declare themselves free of nuclear weapons in peace and war, regardless of developments in other countries. Deputies are elected to the Norwegian parliament through a system of regional proportional representation. Eleven parties are contesting the election.

The latest opinion poll, conducted between Aug. 18 and 25, gave Labor 35.5 percent of the vote compared with 42.3 percent at the last election for the state of the last election for the last electio tion four years ago.

Labor, according to the poll, still had a bigger share of the vote than any other single party. But the conservatives had bounded almost level with Labor with 34.7 percent from 24.8 in 1977. The Center parties had lost ground since the last election according to the poll. — (R)

"Let them say at least he is dead, and we should stop hoping for his return," said a member of the Ceschina family who asked not to be further identified. #### The nation's attic

Smithsonian has begun counting its treasures

Ry Alice Ronner

WASHINGTON. (WP) — When a wealy Englishman named James Smithson wild 152 years ago that his entire estate of over (00.000 be spent setting up a museum in ashington, little did he realize that it would entually become the repository for 6.012 lts: 5.832 hand tools: 2.587 musical struments; 34.146 nests and eggs; and 785 sea ponges.

Neither, for that matter, did the Smithsoan Institution, the museum created by his quest, until three years ago when it began a first-ever top-to-bottom taily of the asures and trivia that have been squirreled ay in its attics and basements over the 135 ars of its existence.

Today, with the cataloguing barely half mpleted. Smithsonian officials say they lieve they have about 78 million items, using from antique light bulbs to the pick-1 brains of two former curators (the rators willed them to the Smithsonian) shed away in dusty cabinets and on display nuseum hallways. But they won't know for e until the count is completed in early $22.

For the first time in the history of the seum we'll know what we have on the lf." said Fred Collier, collections manager paleobiology in the Museum of Natural story, where the vast majority — 60 mil-1 — of the Smithsonian's items are kept, 'e are finding unexpected things...They re gone, but just misplaced, and once you place something in four or five floors of sile."

he Smithsonian's philosophy throughout existence could well fit the axiom that it's ter to have it and not need it than to need it! I not have it.

rouble is, the nation's attic keeper has er quite known what — all it has in its 13 seums, which include the National Zoo; Museum of American History; History Technology Museum; the National Port Gallery; Nationall Collection of Fines; the Hirshhorn; Renwick and Freer Gales; the Air and Space Museum; and the oper- Hewitt Museum, located in New & Cite.

he opportunity to rectify that situation presented to the Smithsonian when it ided in 1978 to build a $29 million storehouse in suburban Maryland. That facility, scheduled to open in 1983, will house essentially everything that is not on display in the Smithsonian's consortium of museums. Since only about 1 percent of the Smithsonian's collections are actually viewable by the public, that meant there would be an enormous amount that had to be stored—and kept track of.

So, for the last three years, inventory technicians — specialists in counting and recording — have been filling Smithsonian computers with information about the number of locomotives, pieces of graphic arts, textiles, and even barges (there is one from the Battle of Lake Champlain) in the Smithsonian's

Among those things recorded so far have been 14 million postage stamps: a full-scale, water-driven saw mill; a dozen or more Zuni Indian rabbit sticks (boomerang-like sticks believed to have been used to stun game); 65.000 medical science items; and 120.000 pieces of political history memorabilia, many of them campaign buttons.

The Smithsonian has saved the hides of street dogs. mountain lions and coyotes. They hang by the nose — along with the precious pelts of river otters, seals and other large mammals — down in the Natural History Museum's fur yoult.

Smithsonian personnel, whose attitudes toward the monumental task range from deadly carnestness of amusement, unanimously emphasize that the project is much greater than a simple count. The vast and varied collection that has steadily grown from the time Smithson's dream was realized with the founding of the museum in 1846 has never been fully catalogued. The count is complicated by the fact that many of the items have not been properly preserved

Assistant Secretary Paul Perrot said discovery was actually "one of the byproducts of the inventory...We're determining the condition of four collection and realizing in a dramatic way that objects have a life of their own and unless properly housed will go the way of all flesh."

"Only in the last 10 years or so have we been confronted with the knowledge that conservation is more than just putting something in a reasonably dry place." Perrot said.

Medfly-type infestations inevitable

By Jay Mathews

LOS ANGELES (WP) — Some insect and agriculture experts have concluded that regular, future outbreaks of the Mediterranean fruit fly and other destructive pests have become inevitable throughout the country, even if the latest California infestation is wiped out. According to the latest available figures, undermanned U.S. inspection stations have found that the number of insectinfested fruits and vegetables and other items brought into the country have increased 50 percent in a year, from about 16,000 finds in fiscal 1979 to about 24,000 in fiscal 1980.

Efforts to stop importation of pests, and their movement about the country, have fallen prey, agricultural inspectors say. to a sudden and unexpected revolution in international commerce. So much produce is shipped now in large, difficult-to-inspect containers and air travel has increased so rapidly that inspectors are hard-pressed to keep up with it.

According to an estimate by the Stanford Research Institute, American farmers, faced with the spread of damaging insects, will spend $6 billion in 1982 on pesticides, a 67 percent increase over 1980. Even after taking inflation into account, U.S. farmers are spending twice as much on pesticides now as they did a decade ago.

"It's about impossible to get people not to transport things around," said Edward Sylvester, chairman of the Department of Entomological Sciences at the University of California at Berkeley. Sylvester numbers himself among many other entomologists who see mankind continuing to lose battles against its old adversary, the insect.

"One never knows what the insect world will do until it does it," Sylvester said, pointing out that the most recent California Medfly infestation spread partly because experts thought the pest could not survive a cold Northern California winter.

The threat of the Medfly to California's rich Central Valley, source of nearly half of the nation's fruits and vegetables, has focused attention on what has been a growing problem throughout the country. While much of the rest of the nation has grown accustomed to regular pest infestations. California has been protected by mountains on the east and the ocean on the west.

Germans underplay anti-Haig campaign

BONN, Sept. 11 (AP) — West German leaders are emphasizing German-American solidarity in an effort to dampen opposition to U.S. policy which could mar the upcoming visit of U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig. Top-ranking officials in all major political parties have made recent public statements of welcome to Haig, who is scheduled to visit Bonn and West Berlin Sunday and Monday.

Peter Corterier, a deputy foreign minister. climbed onto a tank during U.S. Army maneuvers near Karlsruhe to address a group of GIS. He denounced the Aug. 31 bombing at U.S. Air Force headquarters in Ramstein which injured 18 Americans and two West Germans and told the soldiers "it is a major priority of the federal government that you. our American friends, feel comforable in our country," according to the Stars and Stripes

The leftist Young Socialists, youth wing of Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's Social Democratic Party, have scheduled a "peace demonstration" in West Berlin during Haig's visit. The group is strongly opposed to NATO plans for stationing a new generation of nuclear missiles in Europe, and its members have denounced President Ronald Reagan's decision to produce neutron weapons.

The government has formally opposed the demonstration in dberlin, where street toughs frequently battle police and gangs of masked youths have turned past demonstrations into rampages of vandalism. Government spokesman jkurt Becker said the demonstration was "false and damaging" to German-American relations.

The government published s statement Thursday saying Schmidt welcmed Haig's visit, jthe visit "confirms the obligation taken by the United States for the freedom and security of the city," the statement said.

The last major outbreak of violence in West Berlin was during an anti-war rally on Sept. 1. Police had to use tear gas to break up gangs of masked vandals who smashed windows in downtown stores. After the Ramstein bombing, vandals set fire to American cars in Wiesbaden.

Military officials have tightened security measures to protect the 260,000 U.S. forces in the country, but civil and military authorities have said there is no proof to indicate a coordinated terror campaign against American troops.

Labor leaders clash

BLACKPOOL, England Sept. 11 (AP) — Contenders for the No. 2 spot in Britain's deeply divided Labor Party have clashed in their first debate at a meeting of the nation's largest trade federation.

The confrontation Thursday, held before an audience of delegates to the National conference of the Trades Union Congress, was rife with name-calling by the participants and heckling from the gallery.

It highlighted the bitterness with which

Labor's staunchly Socialist left-wing, led by former Energy Secretary Tony Benn, and its moderate faction, represented by the incumbent deputy party leader, Denis Healey, are contesting party's future. A third candidate, John Silkin, falls between the two in the political spectrum and seeks to portray himself as a conciliator.

Healey, who was hissed and booed by the audience Thursday, said the "intellectual narcissism" of Benn and his followers had helped scuttle the Labor government that in 1979 gave way to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative Party.

Benn, during the debate, denied charges he

Bowing to a student demand, the government accepted the mediation of a commission of representatives of the Human Rights Commission, the National University, the Federation of Women's Associations, organized labor and the national legislature.

A source close to the negotiations, who: refused to be identified by name, said the students agreed to drop their demand for nationalization of the 50 schools. In excalinge, the government promised to investigate their complaints about police harassment of federation leaders and the cases of the 41 prisoners.

Commission members then talked at length by telephone "with an important official at the presidential palace," who promised an investigation "to establish the truth relating to this painful incident," the source said.

The students are members of the Federation of Secondary Students, a group that claims membership of about 50,000. They have demanded that the government take over about 50 schools, stop alleged persecution of the school directors and free 41 leftists they claim are political prisoners.

The students want a mediating commission of officials of the National University, human rights and labor groups and political parties but the government has not said if it will try to form the commission.

Pinochet marks 8 years' rule

Chilean President Augusto Pinochet Friday marked the eighth anniversary of the military coup in which he seized power from Marxist President Salvador Allende. The day had been declared a holiday and the 65-year-old army general delivered a lengthy state of the nation address to some 3,000 persons.

It was eight years ago Friday that Hawker-Hunter jets belonging to the Chilean Air Force streaked over the 18th century Moneda Palace and fired 18 rockets into it while Allende, his advisers and girlfriend were inside.

All but Allende cleared out amid the smoke and flames. When troops broke into the inner recesses of the palace they claimed to have found Allende dead, his head allegedly exploded by self-inflicted bullets from a Soviet AK-47 rifle given him by Fidel Pinochet took control of the government and has lasted longer than any other Chilean leader this century. A new constitution, adopted last year, granted Pinochet near dictatorial powers until 1989 when the three top-ranked military commanders beneath him will choose a new president.

Guided by Pinochet's economic team, known as the "Chicago boys," the government has achieved solid economic growth by opening the country to foreign investment and restructuring labor law in favor of management. Social security, for example, is being turned over to private enterprise.

His detractors charge that the economic growth has not resulted in more money for the poor, but admit the government has tamed inflation and stimulated the economy.

New company to stage Miss Zimbabwe finals

- Zimbabwe's government, faced with a race row over whether its chosen beauty for the Miss World pageant should be black or white, has announced that a new group of organizers would stage the local finals Sept. 18"to produce the required result."

ه کامن الممل

A company called Media Associates would take over from the previous organizers who were criticized in the press this week for allegedly rigging the Miss Zimbabwe contest to ensure a white was sent to London in November wearing the Zimbabwe crown, a statement issued by the government Information Department said.

The move followed black indignation that in a land where the whites are outnumbered 28 to one by blacks, judges chose nine whites, seven blacks and a colored (mixed race) to stand in finals for the Miss Zimbabwe pageant originally scheduled for Friday.

The organizer, Hotelman, Wednesday announced it was dropping out of the contest and handing it over to another consortium in the face of the protests. But the head of Hotelman, Irish-born restaurateurbusinessman Tim Horgan, said also that of the 26 judges responsible for picking the semi-finalists all but eight were blacks. And he postponed the finals for a week to Sept. 18 to allow the new company, dominated by blacks, to reorganize the finals.

Thursday's government statement said that "subject to the agreement of the Miss World organization" Media Associates Ltd., an advertising agency registered for a few weeks, "will take over full responsibility for running the postponed finals...

A spokesman was quoted as saying in the statement he "hoped that the finals would produce the required result." The spokesman was also quoted as saying he hoped "Zimbabwe would take its rightful place in the

To curb interest rates

eagan orders big budget cuts with S. Korea

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (R) — President Ronald Reagan, trying to calm fears in the financial community about high interest rates and inflation, has ordered sweeping new cuts in budgets for the next few years.

A White House spokesman said the president, at a meeting with his cabinet Thursday, ordered an undisclosed amount cut from the budget for the financial year 1982, beginning next month, as well as $30 billion from 1983 spending and $44 billion from the 1984

But the White House said it has not yet been decided how much would be cut from defense spending, which the president would like to increase to meet what he sees as a growing threat from the Soviet Union.

Reagan's meeting with his economic advisers and his cabinet came soon after the congressional budget office had published a report saying next year's budget deficit would be nearer $65 billion than the administra-

The congressional report also said Reagan would fall $50 billion short of meeting his cherished goal of a balanced budget in 1984. The White House spokesman said the administration felt these predictions were wrong because they did not take into account the effect of the president's economic recovery program

Senior members of Reagan's own Republican Party in Congress have suggested credit controls should be introduced to bring down interest rates. Reagan told his cabinet Thursday he was not in favor of such controls, the spokesman said. Reagan showed he shared congressional irritation with Wall Street when he told his economic advisers in the presence of reporters that he was 'very upser' with its reaction to his economic recovery

The White House spokesman said the president had told all departments with the exception of defense that they would have to make extra cuts ranging from $500 million to $4 billion from their 1983 and 1984 budgets. He said the president gave departments a percentage range for cuts for the next year. But no final target was fixed because the size of the deficit would depend largely on whether interest rates continued to stay high.

Administration sources expect the new 1982 cut to be about $15 billion.

In New York, reacting to the Reagan move, the financial markets perked up Thursday with rallies in stock and bond prices, but analysis saw few signs that the Reagan administration had quelled Wall Street's fears about inflation and big budget

"The problem right now is inflationary expectations," said Scott Lovestead, an economist at Data Resources Inc. a private economic research firm. "Those expectations don't change overnight, regardless of what Reagan would like."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) - An import tee of one cent a pound (.45 kgs) will be levied on raw sugar entering the United States as of Friday (Sept. 11), U.S. Agriculture Secretary John R. Block has said.

Japan's talks on aid fail

SEOUL, Sept. 11 (AFP) - A two-day South Korean-Japanese ministerial conference has ended in complete failure as Japan refused to provide economic aid to South Korea which was security-linked, South Korean officials said here Friday.

The chief Ispanese delegate, Foreign Minister Sunao Sunoda, had stuck to Tokyo's position that Japan could not offer economic cooperation on the basis of aiding South Korea's defense efforts against a Communist threat, they said.

South Korea was understood to have insisted that Japan share its defense burden by providing a $6 billion government loan plus a $4 billion commercial bank credit over the next five years. According to the officials, the two sides had failed even to issue a customary joint communique. Instead, a joint statement was to be made public later Friday explaining the position of each side.

As OPEC, OECD wrangle IFAD hit by paucity of fund

ROME, Sept. 11 (R) - Rich countries' wrangles over replenishing its funds are threatening the work of the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) in helping poverty-stricken farmers, IFAD has said.

A statement issued from the fund's Rome beadquarters announced nine new loans to poor countries, but said the largest, of $35 million for paddy land development in indonesia, was "subject to availability of *ESOUTCES."

IFAD, set up in 1977, had exhausted its mitial funding of $1 billion, the statement said, and IFAD member states had pledged more than that sum for the period 1981-

But negotiations between the two major contributing groups - OECD (the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development) and OPEC (the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) — over how to share the burden remained stalled after more than two years, IFAD said. It said further talks aimed at breaking the deadlock between OECD and OPEC were du Washington Sept. 28 in order to avoid interruption in its operations.

Seoul sees surge in exports

BRUSSELS, Sept. 11 (AFP) - South Korean Prime Minister Nam Duck-Woo, who met with top officials of the European Economic Community (EEC), here, has predicted a revival of production and exports from South Korea and a drop in inflation from 20 to 10 percent.

The prime minister made his remarks at a press conference following meetings with European Commission President Gaston Thorn, Vice President Etienne Davignon. who holds the industry and energy portfolio. and commissioner Wilhelm Haferkamp, who is charge of external relations.

President Thorn pointed to the trade imbalance between the 10 Common Market members and South Korea, which more than doubled last year to some $1 billion. Thorn gave his assurance that the European Com mission was fighting against protectionism, but declared this struggle must be supported by actions to lessen the trade imbalance.

Nam responded that South Korea had already liberalized regulations on 75 percent of imported goods, and that this percentage would increase to 90 percent in 1986.

Nam said his country had its own foreign trade problems, with a 1980 balance of pavments deficit amounting to $5 billion, much of that with Japan. The South Korean leader suggested a sort of "Marshall plan" on the part of the Europeans to help developing countries. The Marshall plan was a massive American aid program to post-war Western

U.S. levies fee on sugar imports

Imports of refined sugar will be assessed 1.52 cents a pound, a penny increase from the current rate. No fees have been charged on raw sugar since Oct. 1979 when the rate was 0.76 per pound. The fee for refined sugar has held at 0.52 cents since then.

The fees are required by a 1978 presidential order designed to help protect domestic producers from lower-priced foreign sugar.

Turkey's economic turn-around astounds

ANKARA, Sept. 11 (AP) - On the sur face. Turkey's economic recovery could become a textbook case for the developing nations. Inflation has been slashed, productivity has risen, the value of exports should nearly double this year compared to last.

Euromoney Magazine of London has even chosen Turgut Ozal, the architect of the recovery, as its man of the year. Wageearners and consumers have a different pers-

Inflation is down to 38 percent from more than 100 percent one year ago, but wages are not keeping pace and unemployment is rising. With both husband and wife working an average Turkish family of four has a monthly spendable income of roughly $200. By govemment decree wages on average will go up by 25 percent in the next 12 months.

The economics of Turkish life are grim. One-third of the average family's income goes for rent, leaving$130 for everything else, dbus fares would be at least $30 a month, a large expense dictated by living on the outskirts of town where they can afford the rent. Utilities would take another $20, leaving $80 for food, clothing and entertainment. With ground meat costing$1.50 a pound, meatless meals are the rule. Bread, rice and beans are the staples of the Turkish

A Turkish-made washing machine imported brands are not available - costs $100 to $700 depending upon quality, which is below European standards. A new Turkish-made Fiat costs $10,000, a television $500, a refrigerator $700. Financial realities are also having a social impact.

"Turks are great ones to visit each other but since their budgets are so stretched they can't afford bus fare across town. My sister used to visit me three times a week, Now I haven't seen her in three months, she lives just across town," said one middle-income Ankara resident. The inflated costs of consumer goods, combined with depressed salaries, is an intentional austerity measure and it is boosting Turkey's economic standing in the eyes of international financiers.

With domestic demand nearly dead, man ufacturers are bring forced to caport their products at competitive prices, and exportare expected to double this year. For the first six months of 1981. Turkey exported about $2 billion in goods. For the same period a year ago the figure was $1.3 billion. Boosting exports is the backbone of the recovery program which Deputy Prime Minister Ozal insugated 20 months ago. With the increased hard currency income from the boost in exports. Even with the large jump in exports, Turkey's balance of payments defect for the firm seven months of 198; hit $3 billion, a 35 percent increase over the same period last year. #### Iranian team to seek new oil contracts

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AFP) — A team from the National Iranian Oil Company (NIOC) is due here shortly to negotiate new contracts for crude sales to British Petroleum, Shell and probably some Japanese firms, oil sector executives said Friday.

The negotiations will cover renewal of nine-month contracts expiring Sept. 30 under which BP gets 65,000 barrels a day, Shell 100,000 barrels, and 13 Japanese firms 230,000 barrels. The rates are $36 a barrel for heavy and $37 for light. Iran applied a $1.8 premium during the first three months of the contracts.

Industry executives said the oil companies would seek a big drop in price, having regard to present circumstances. The companies were paying $5 above the Saudi Arabian rate for equivalent quality. In addition, shipping of Iranian oil involves higher insurance due to the Iran-Iraq conflict.

Pointing to the international surplus in oil, they believed Iran was in a hurry to sell its oil and to increase sales volume due to the decline in the Iranian monetary reserves. The n-zotiating companies are Iran's main cus-

Meanwhile, China cancelled an order of 130,000 tons of wheat which had been orderd for delivery this calendar year. No reason was made public. One official, who asked not to be identified, speculated that China may have had problems with shipping schedules or perhaps cancelled so it could deal for a better

China last year signed a four-year agreement to buy at least six million metric tons of wheat and com annually, plus three million additional tons if it chooses without further consultation with U.S. officials. Under it, Russia is committed to buy at least six million metric tons of wheat and com, plus an additional two million if it chooses, without further talks with U.S. officials. If more than eight million are wanted, consultations must be held.

U.S. and Soviet officials are scheduled to meet in Moscow on Sept. 30-Oct. 1 to talk about terms of the agreement's sixth year. There have been indications the Soviets will be told they can buy an additional 10 million to 15 million tons of grain in 1981-82, making a possible total of 18 million to 23 million for the year.

Connors sails into last four

Tanner gets best out of Borg

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) — Sweden's Bjorn Borg, the tournament's No. 2 seed, outlasted Roscoe Tanner and fourth-seeded Jimmy Connors crushed Eliot Teltscher Thursday to advance into the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Borg, who has not won America's premier tennis event in 10 attempts, captured his quarterfinal match 7-6, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6 after Tanner had fought off three match points. He will meet Connors, who posted a 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 victory over the eight-seeded Teltscher. In the other semifinal, top-seeded John McEn-roe will face No. 15 Vitas Gerulaitis.

The women's semifinals, scheduled for Friday, will pit No. 1 Chris bevert-Lloyd against jno, 4 Martina Navratilova, and No. 3 Tracy Austin against No. 11 Barbara Potter.

Connors, a three-time winner of this tournament, never had any problems against Teltscher. The two traded service breaks in the opening two games, then Connors broke Teltscher again to begin the rout.

The left-hander broke Teltscher again in the ninth game to capture the first set. Then came a 15-minute crowd-pleasing performance that ended any ideas Teltscher might have had of winning.

Connors fought through eight deuces and staved off six break points to hold serve to open the second set. It was downlidt for Teltscher after that, as Connors won seven straight games spanning the first two sets. Connors took a 5-0 lead before Telischer could hold serve. Then Conners captured the first four sets of the final set before Teltscher held serve in the fifth game, then broke Connors in the sxith.

The former Wimbledon champion, who has not won the U.S. Open since 1978, broke right back, then held serve to close out the

Tanner had difficulty holding his serve in the opening set, while the ninth-seeded lefthander never won more than one point in any game against Borg's serve. With the exception of the match-opening game. Borg took Tanner to deuce every time the left-hander

But Tanner held, and they went to a tiebreaker, the first of three they were to play in their two-hour, 49-minute battle. Borg quickly won the first four points before winning 7-4 and taking the opening set.

Borg broke Tanner in the second game of the next set, then rode his own serve to grab a 2-0 victory. It appeared then that Borg would easily capture his third U.S. Open quarterfinal meeting with Tanner. They had split the first two. Tanner winning in 1979 and Borg last vear.

But Tanner shook off what he felt was a bad call and forced the third set into a tiebreaker, which he won 7-4, winning four points on Borg's serve.

In the second game of the third set, Borg fired an ace, one of five he had in the match. Tanner thought it was out and the call obviously upset him. He was still complaining about the call in the next game, but managed to regain his concentration and hold serve.

Then, with Tanner serving in the 11th game of the fourth set while down 4-5. Borg took a 15-40 lead. Tanner's only point coming on an ace. Tanner staved off the first match point with a smash. Then he pulled to deuce with a forehand volley to the corner off Borg's return on service.

Two points later, umpire Herb Lewis of Miami announced "game. Tanner." but immediately changed when he was informed that Tanner's serve had been ruled out. On his next serve. Tanner finally did win the

Lewis lost count of the score in the next game. Borg won the first point when Tanner's volley sailed wide. When Borg also won the next point. Lewis announced the score was

When Lewis repeated the erroneous score three times and urged Borg to continue play, the Swede walked to the umpire's chair and said: "Ask your umpire." Lewis did and immediately changed his call to 30-love. bringing a roar of approval from the crowd of 18,846, the largest ever paid attendance at the U.S. Open.

"I think both of us were upset at the umpire." Borg said later. "He misunderstood the score.

Tanner had to battle through two deuces before holding serve in the 12th game and sending the decisive set a tiebreaker. Tanner broke Borg with a cross-court bankhand to jump out to a 1-0 lead. But he double-faulted to lose the seventh point.

On the 10th point. Tanner served what he thought was an ace. But a linesman called it out and Tanner went to the umpire to question the call.

"It's his fault call," Lewis told Tanner. referring to the linesman. "I can't change it." Five points later, Borg broke Tanner when the left-hander's cross-court forehand volley went wide. On the next point, Borg fired his patented two-handed cross-court backhand passing shot to win the tiebreaker 9-7 and move on to the semifinals.

In one of the most crowd-pleasing matches of the tournament, the top-seeded men's doubles team of McEnroe and Peter Fleming outlasted the Australian pair of John Newcombe and Fred Stolle 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 6-7, 7-6 in a three-hour. 18-minute semifinal marathon.

Stolle, 42, won the singles title here in 1966 and Newcombe in 1967. Stolle had combined with Roy Emerson to win the doubles crown in 1965 and 1966 and with Ken Rosewall in 1969. Newcombe, 37. teamed with Tony Roche to capture the doubles in 1967 and with Roger Taylor to win in 1971.

McEnroe and Fleming, who won here in 1979 and finished second last year, are 22 and 26 years old, respectively." This was the largest crowd I've played in front of." Stolle said of the 10,000 people who were watching in Louis Armstrong Stadium. "I was plenty nervous until I got hit in the neck with the ball. That started me twitching."

F.A. chief calls for changes in England setup

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AFI) - Bert Millichip, the new Football Association chairman, wants changes in the England international (set-up following the World Cup calamity in Norway Wednesday. But he refused to join the growing chorus who are already seeking the head of England manager Ron Greenwood.

He said as the team arrived back at Luton Thursday: "I feel changes will have to be made. Our team preparation as a whole will have to be looked at and other countries' methods studied and compared, "I already have some personal thoughts on the matter. and I am talking in terms of surgery rather than re-arrangement, he said,

The West Bromwich chairman declined to be specific, and would seem to have no criticism of the individuals involved. Nor would costs appear to be a concern, because the income from internationals more than covers the price of taking two coaches — Bill Taylor and Geoff Hurst - with the senior party, as well as Day Sexton, plus two more coaches -Terry Venables and Howard Wilkson - with the under-21 squad. The "surgery" Millichip has in mind may even go further than the international scene. He and FA secretary Ted Croker have already paid a visit to West Germany to study their coaching system at every level, and more overseas visits will be made as they try to discover why a nation 'which regularly produces the top club team in Europe cannot turn out a winning England eleven.

Greenwood says his future is now "In other people's hands" as every football manager's

Ron Greenwood is. His "whatever will be will be" air after the 2-1 defeat suggests he does not intend preempting the issue by resigning the post he has held for three years before the last hope of qualification is gone.

International committee chairman Dick Wragg says there will be no emergency meeting to discuss the situation." This is no time to be panicked into hurried decisions. It is a time to think careful about any action," he said.

Taking the same view, Millichip said: "There will be no hasty move over a new manager on our part. I can see reasons for change but at this time we must be patient and wait until after the Hungary game. Nothing would be served by acting before we knew for certain whether we are in out of the Jock Stein was strangely reluctant to dis-cuss England's World Cup future although his team holds a confortable four points lead at the top of Group Six.

Qualifying became more of a probability than just a possibility after Wednesday's night's 2-0 victory over Sweden at Hampden Park, but the cautious Scottish manager will not be drawn on the subject. "I can only repeat what I said at the start of the season, that we need eleven points to be certain of qualifying and at the moment we are still one short. Of course we are on the threshold but I am not prepared to look any further ahead until we get that point."

The mathematical calculation appears to put Scotland beyond the recall of the only two challengers, Northern Ireland and Portugal. The Irish can only equal Scotland's present total of ten points - and must improve their goal difference to nose in front - while Portugal can attain a maximum of eleven points but this means winning all of their last three Stein was much more eager to salute the 81.511 supporters for their loyalty and patience. "We unquestionably have the best set of supporters anywhere in the world." he said. "They may have caused us a few problems in the past by expecting too much too soon.

"But now the players and supporters seem to have struck up a mutual understanding. The fans are prepared to be patient and wait for goals to come even if things are not going the team's way early on. Against Sweden they were magnificant."

Petric pips Olympic champ

SPLIT, Yugoslavia, Sept 11 (AFP) -Yougoslav star swimmer Borut Petric caused the shock of the day when he outraced Soviet Olympic champion Vladimir Salnikov on the men's 400 meters freestyle final at the European Swimming Championships bere Thurs-

The new European champion clocked 3.51.63 to Salnikov's 3:51.77 as the home crowd went wild. Petric's younger brother Darjan, 19, finished in third place for the Salnikov, who had set the best time in the hearts, appeared relaxed and smiling as he approached the starting line Thursday, but he soon had cause for worry as Petric jumped into the lead after the first 100 meters.

At 200 meters Petric was still a few hundredths of a second faster, when the Olympic champion accelerated to overtake his rival at 300 meters. But the 21-year-old Petric, 1,500 meters silver medallist at the 1978 World Championships in Berlin, fought back in the final lap, narrowly beating Salnikov to the wire. In his winning effort Petric knocked nearly eight seconds off his own personal record and set a new national record as well.

Hungary's Sandor Wladar, in another upset, became the new European 100 meters backstroke champion, beating a pair of Russians on the final, Wladar clocked 56.72 for a new national record, as Vladimir Shemetov and Victor Kuznetsov of the Soviet Union had to be content with second and third.

East Germany's Ute Geweniger snatched her third European title, after the women's 100 meters butterfly and breastroke, when she won the 200 meters breaststroke final Thursday. Larissa Belokony of the toviet Union was second.

Ina Kleber, also of East Germany, captured the women's 100 meters backstroke title in a time of 1:02.81 ahead of another

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP) - Mike Gatting, England Test cricketer, slammed a century in 76 minutes for Middlesex against Surrey in the English County Championships at Uxbridge Thursday.

Gatting, who was named earlier this week for the England team to tour India this winter, reached his 100 off 75 balls with the help of five sixes and 13 fours.

In 50 whirlwind minutes after lunch Gatting hit 81 runs. He went on to make 169 before being run out. Middlesex had lost three wickets for 146 in reply to Surrey's huge total of 411. Gatting and Clive Radley then added 197 for the fourth wicket, with Gatting geting nearly all the runs. Eventually Middlesex declared at 392 for eight, 19 runs

English Soccer

Promoted teams sailing high

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP) - England's dejected soccer stars, facing elimination from the World Cup, will be out to redeem their reputations in League games this Saturday.

The critics are howling after goalkeeper
Ray Clemence and midfield Terry McDermott, whose mistakes cost England two goals and a 1-2 upset defeat by Norway in Oslo Wednesday night.

Clemence has made an unhappy start for Tottenham Hotspur since moving from Liverpool. He had seven goals scored against him as Spurs crashed to defeat in two home games. Then came the disaster in Oslo. Right now he is not looking like the World class goalkeeper who helped Liverpool to five championship triumph in eight years.

Spurs visit Wolverhampton Saturday and will be trying to stop the slide after a bad start to the season. Clemence cannot afford to make any more mistakes.

McDermott, still with Liverpool, faces one of the toughest games of the season away to Ipswich, last season's runners-up. Ipswich, with marksmen John Wark, Paul Mariner and Alan Brazil hungry for goals, threaten to make another strong challenge for the championship. The match of the day could be at Maine

Road, Manchester, where Trevor Francis and his new club Manchester City face Southampton. The two teams are among the early leaders in the championship race. It could be a classic confrontation, with Francis on one side and Kevin Keegan on the other.

With three rounds of games played, West Ham, Manchester City and Notts County are joint leaders with seven points each. Three more teams - Southampton, Stoke and Swansea - come next with six points.

A win in the English League now earns three points instead of the traditional two. There are signs that the new rule is producing more attacking football and more goals.

Three of the six leaders - West Ham. Notts County and Swansea — were promoted from the Second Division at the end of last season. It is many years since the new boys in the First Division started so well.

Swansea and Notts County have to play each otherat Swansea. It's a big day for both teams. Swansea is in :: the First Division for the first time ever. Notts County for the first time in 50 years. West Ham faces Stoke at home. So the six top teams in the race are all involved in playing each other.

Ipswich, lurking in the rear with five points, could leap over some of these teams and be closer to top place by Saturday night.

The transfer of Francis to Manchester City leaves Justin Fashanu and Ian Wallace as twin spearheads for Nottingham Forest. They will be looking for goals in the home match against West Bromwich.

Fashanu, bought from Norwich for one million pounds, has yet to settle down. He scored 17 goals for Norwich last season, and with men like Wallace and John Robertson beside him, could be one of the stars of the championship once he finds his feet.

Luton, going strong in the Second Division with the maximum nine points from three games, will try to keep up the good form in the home game against Sheffield Wednesday, the team managed by former England World

Barfield hits Blue Jays past Mariners

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) - Jesse Barfield who has hit safely in all eight of his major league games, smashed a solo home run and Luis Leal and Joey McLaughlin combined on a six-hit shutout as the Toronto Blue Javs heat the Seattle Mariners 2-0 Thursday night. Leal, 6-11, limited the Mariners to five hits over seven innings before leaving the game another double. Whitt was thrown out attempting to stretch the hit into a triple and manager Bobby Matticl was ejected from the game for arguing the call with third base umpire Durwood Merrill.

Cleveland's John Denny had his scoreless pitching streak snapped at 342-3 consecutive innings but with the help of reliever Dan Spillner defeated the Baltimore Orioles 4-1. Denny, who had thrown three straight shutouts, kept the Orioles off the scoreboard until, with two out in the eighth, Ken Singleton singled in Al Bumbry with Baltimore's run. Denny, who recorded a career-high 18 sotikeouts and gave up only five hits, then yeilded to Spillner, who registered his fifth

The Indians scored in the fourth on singles by Jorge Ojta and Mike Hargrov and a sacrifice fly by Toby Harrah. In the sixth, Rick manning doubled, took third after a fly ball and scored on Hargrove's sacrifice fly. A double by Von Hayes and Pat Kelly's single made it 3-0 in the seventh, and Harrah scored the Indians' final run on a Tippy Martinez wild pitch in the ninth.

Wadkins leads

S JTTON, Massachusetts, Sept. 11 (AP) - .ay Floyd, the PGA's leading money winper this year, and his fellow touring pros are raving about the shape of the Pleasant Valley Country Club course, and deservedly so.

With fairways virtually manicured and greens much firmer than in past years, the 7,119-yard (meter) layout was like a playground for many Thursday in the opening round of the $300,000 Pleasant Valley Junmy Fund Classic.

And it was like shooting par golf and finding yourself in an 18-way tie for 44th place. Starting in early morning with hardly a breeze, Lanny Wadkins, a 31-year-old PGA millionaire but winless on the tour since 1979, fired a 33-33-66 for a two-stroke lead.

Then came a 12-way tie for second, a group which included Tom Kite, whose 68 bettered his PGA leading average of 69.88 strokes a round this year.

Several protesters shot

roops, tanks guard key points in Kabul Angola pledged support

PESHAWAR, Pakistan, Sept. 11 (AFP) - Tanks have been moved in to guard strategic points in the Afghan capital following massive demonstration in Kabul Tuesday and Wednesday in which several persons were reportedly killed, travelers arriving here said Friday.

As tension mounted, troops were called out in Kabul to guard radio and television stations and the road leading to Kabul Airport, the sources said. Several thousand people marched on Kabul streets to protest the government's call to retired army personnel to join the defense forces.

The marchers, mostly women and girl students, chanted slogans against the regime of Marxist President Babrak Karmal and the Soviet occupation forces, according to a bus driver who reached this border town Friday.

Waldheim faces Salim

UNITED NATIONS, Sept. 11 (R) -United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim faces a formidable opponent in Salim Ahmad Salim, foreign minister of Tanzania, as he seeks an unprecedented third term in office, diplomats said Friday.

Waldheim announced his candidacy Thursday, putting himself against Salifn, who has the endorsement of the 50-member Organization of African Unity and may have support from the Arab League. Diplomatic sources here said they expected the nonaligned movement to endorse Salim's candidacy later this month or in October. during one of its frequent caucuses.

A respected figure in the Commonwealth, Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere is considered certain to raise the matter at its summit in Melbourne, Australia, next month. Diplomats said Commonwealth endorsement of the Tanzanian minister was doubtful since that would require a consensus and his radical views are offensive to some members.

Essentially, the choice is one for the Security Council, where the five permanent members — the United States, the Soviet Union, China, France and Britain — have the power of veto. Diplomats here believe that China poses Waldheim's biggest obstacle. The Chinese at first vetoed his re-election in 1976, in what was interpreted as a signal that they wanted a Third World Figure in the office. Later the veto was withdrawn to permit his reappointment, but until now there was no rival with Salim's standing.

Still under 40 years old, he was for 10 years Tanzania's chief U.N. delegate, chairing the important special committee against colonialism, serving two years on the Security Council and climaxing his career as president of the General Assembly in 1979-80. A radical activist, Salim won Third World acclaim but did not endear himself to the West. He floor-managed the admission of the Chinese People's Republic in 1971, thwarting the efforts of U.S. Ambassador (now vice president) George Bush to retain the seat for Taiper's representatives. When the General Assembly vote went narrowly for Peking there was dancing in the ailes and Salim was alleged to have joined the revellers — a report he denies to this day.

Salim said Thursday night he was not seeking a confrontation with Waldheim but added "I am not going to withdraw.

According to the spokesman, security arrangements in Kabul are being handled by the Soviet army. He said the Afghan soldiers have been withdrawn from the capital due to "lack of trust." The spokesman said that the regime was apparently expecting more ral-lies, with Soviet gunship helicopters hovering in the Kabul skies. Curfew restrictions were strickly observed and troop patrols stepped

He added that the once 90,000-strong Afghan Army had been reduced to one-third its original strengthen in 20 months of battling against anti-Communist guerrillas in Afghanistan. The Soviet-backed Kabul regime has moved to build up the depleted army by introducing compulsory military service for youth above the age of 22. The age limit was recently lowered to 17, but young Afghans refused draft laws.

Following this failure, the Kabul government decided to re-employ retired personnel. Reports said that people in Jalalabad and Kandhar also protested against the new order, which was to take effect from Tuesday.

Mujahedeen sources said the Soviets have planted "very powerful" mines along the Kabul-Jalalabad highway to prevent the movement of Mujahedeen. The Mujahedeen reported fresh dropping of birdsized green

Meanwhile, the twice-weekly flights by the Pakistani PIA between Afghanistan and Pakistan have been quietly suspended for the last two weeks, diplomatic sources in Islamabd said Friday. A spokesman for the Pakistani government said that the government had not taken any boycott decision and that the state airline was a commercial hody which could not be used as a means of applying political pressure.

However, a PIA manager said that "company staff were warned that there would be no flights for some time mainly because the Kabul authorities had given asylum to hijackers who took control of a PIA Boeing in LAGOS, Sept. 11 (Agencies) — Nigerian President Shehu Shagari Friday opened a one-day conference of leaders of the six "front-line" states with a pledge to provide Angola with moral, diplomatic and material support against South African incursions. In his opening speech — and for the first time since Pretoria launched its latest operations againt Angola two weeks ago - Shagari roundly condemned the attacks on Angola's sovereignty and territorial integrity. He described the South African incursions as the actions of a wounded lion which saw its end was near. South Africa knew that its days in the territory of Namibia were numbered and was doing all it could to delay the nationalist victory in that country, he said. Shagari attacked the support given to South Africa by "certain" Western countries, and warned that their aid represented a serious threat to peace and world stability.

speaking as chairman of the front-line group, stressed Nigeria's contribution to independence struggles in southern Africa. He noted that this was the first time the six had held a conference outside their own states, but explained that despite its geographical position - in West Africa - Nigeria had become a front-line state by virtue of its contribu-

Other front-line leaders at the meeting are President's Samora Machel (Mozambique), Kenneth Kaunda (Zambia), Quett Masire (Botswana) and Jose Eduardo dos Santos (Angola) as well as Zimbahwe's Prime Minister Robert Mugabe. Kenyan President Daniel Aran Moi, this year's chairman of the Organization of African Unity, and Sam Nujoma, president of the Southwest Africa Peoples Organization (SWAPO) are also attending the conference.

Shagari said Nigeria's solidarity with Angola and other front-line states was "unflinching." It would continue to "make appropriate sacrifices under the auspices of the OAU" to provide moral, diplomatic and material support to Angola and also to SWAPO of Namibia and the ANC (African National Congress) of South Africa, he said.

Nigeria's support for SWAPO, which alone represented the oppressed people of Nambia, and for the ANC on behalf of the oppressed non-white majority in South Africa itself, would continue "until their noble goals are achieved," Shagari said.

He said: "Africa has been patient and has accepted to talk every time it was asked to do so. Today we have no other alternative than fighting. The southern African issue is one of decolonization and liberty. There is no possible compromise on these two matters."

France's Socialist government has decided to allow SWAPO and the ANC to open information offices in Paris, External Relations Ministry said Friday.

Meanwhile, a Third World resolution against South African rule over Namibia was watered down Thursday in a bid for more votes at the U.N. General Assembly's emergency special session on the future of that territory. It was expected to be adopted by a large majority Friday night. The number of countries sponsoring the resolution had grown from 45 to 61 since it was submitted Wednesday night. Algerian Ambassador Muhammad Bedjaoui, chairman of the 51-nationAfrican group for September, formally introduced the resolution and read out amendments to it.

A provision that would have had the assembly "decide" to "impose against" South Africa comprehensive mandatory sanctions envisaged in Chapter 7 of the U.N. charter was changed to have it only "firmly resolve" to "immediately enact" such sanc-

Mrs. Devlin McAliskey appeared at a raily of the Revolutionary Communist League at Montjuich on Barcelona's outskirts, the agency said, spoke for 10 minutes and left for an unknown destination.

GLUECKSBURG, West Germany, Sept. 11 (R) — A big Soviet naval fleet Friday conducted landing exercises in the Baltic near the Soviet border with Poland, the West German Naval Command said. A command spokesman said 5,000 Soviet Marines were landed in five lakes on the coast north of Baltijsk, near the port of Kaliningrad, just north of the Soviet-Polish border.

Heavy fog, which restricted visibility to under two miles, delayed the start of the exercise, part of scheduled large-scale Warsaw Pact air and sea maneuvers. Naval Command Capt. Bernhard Haupt said the huge buildup of forces in the Baltic showed Poland could be sealed off at sea as well at its land

He said backfire bombers with artillery support had simulated air raids during the night. The Naval Command had also observed considerable movement on the aircraft carriers Kiev and Leningrad. Twentyseven vessels took part in the landing exercise which started 15 miles offsbore, Capt. Haupt said. A Swedish defense staff spokesman earlier said the full force comprised up to 80' ships, making it the largest seen in the Baltic since World War II. The German spokesman said the first wave consisted solely of hovercraft.

Japanese ship burning

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11 (AP) — Fire raged through the hold of a 570-foot Japanese freighter hauling automobiles Friday, forcing 15 of the 22 crewmen to abandon their ship, the U.S. Coast Guard said.

The research ship Cayuse was nearby to pick up crewmen from the listing freighter Blue Hawk, which caught fire about 700 miles southwest of San Francisco. A C-130 Coast Guard airplane was circling overhead, according to petty officer Jim Edwards.

Other merchant vessels were on their way and the Coast Guard cutter Morgenthau left San Francisco for a 28-hour voyage to the scene, Edwards said. He did not know if the freighter was in danger of sinking. There are no reports of injuries. "Apparently, it's getting pretty bad. They've abandoned the radio room because it was getting too hot."

Salvador recalls envoys for talks

SAN SALVADOR, Sept. 11 (Agencies)
- Salvadoran ambassadors and charges d'affaires posted throughout Central America have been recalled here for a series of consultations, the Foreign Ministry said Friday. Sources said the recall was related to the recent decision by Mexico and France to recognize as a "representative political force," the leftist groups fighting against the ruling Salvadoran junta.

The diplomats are to meet with Foreign Minister Fidel Chavez Mena. The Salvadoran charge d'affaires to Mexico had been here since last week, when he was recalled by the Foreign Ministry. A spokesman for the ministry said the Salvadoran ambassador to France may be summoned here for consultations in the next few days.
